

National American University Announces Reaffirmation of Higher Learning Commission Accreditation for 10 Years that NAU's accreditation has been reaffirmed by the Institutional Actions Council of the Higher Learning Commission ("HLC"), effective January 26, 2015, for a period of 10 years. Chicago-based HLC is recognized by the United States Department of Education and Council for Higher Education Accreditation as having responsibility for overseeing higher education institutions in the central United States. HLC is the principal accreditor of NAU and its academic programs.

Ronald L. Shape, Ed.D., Chief Executive Officer of the Company, stated that National American University had the privilege of hosting a comprehensive visit for reaffirmation of the University's regional accreditation by the Higher Learning Commission in September. An eight-member peer review team conducted a review of our self-study document and visited the University's central administration offices in Rapid City, SD, as well as eight other locations throughout the university system. Faculty and staff from across the university system worked diligently to produce an exceptional self-study document outlining our strengths and opportunities for improvement. The University was formally notified on January 30, 2015, by the HLC that National American University has received continued accreditation for 10 years.

"We believe National American University ("NAU"), a regionally accredited, proprietary institution of higher learning offering associate, bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degree programs in technical and professional disciplines. Accredited by the Higher Learning Commission and a member of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools, NAU has been providing technical and professional career education since 1941. NAU opened its first campus in Rapid City, South Dakota, and has since grown to multiple locations throughout the United States. In 1998, NAU began offering online courses. Today, NAU offers degree programs in traditional, online, hybrid format, which provide students increased flexibility to take courses at times and places convenient to their busy lifestyles.
